Around The Area

In a beachside New England town, minutes from a historic downtown and only a two-hour train ride to either New York City or Boston, the University of New Haven may be the most ideally located campus in the nation.

IBRAHIM ALI ZAINAL

B.S., Electrical Engineering, with a minor in Business Administration

“I came to the University of New Haven when I was 17. Like any international student, I was eager to embrace a new life experience in the United States. Beginning with the warm welcome I received the first day on campus, the University became my ‘home away from home.’ The faculty, staff, and classmates were like my family. I was a straight A student and was elected president of the International Student Association. Now I work at Chevron Enterprise as a global supply chain advisor. I am forever thankful for how the University of New Haven challenged my brain, expanded my horizons, and taught me about the value of diversity.”

Build On

Bergami Center for Science, Technology, and Innovation

This 40,000-square-foot facility, slated to open in 2019, will increase collaboration across academic disciplines and foster partnerships among students, faculty, and industry leaders. It will house makerspace, cutting-edge science classrooms, communication studios, and space for working on multidisciplinary projects.

Did You Know?

David A. Beckerman founded the Starter Corporation in New Haven, CT shortly after graduating from the University of New Haven. During the 1990s, the Starter Corporation manufactured and supplied official uniforms for the main sports leagues in the United States, including teams in the NFL, NBA, and NHL.

Highly regarded as a talent and artist development executive, Susan Dodes has held positions in the music industry as Director of Talent Acquisition at Warner-Chappell Music, Director of A+R for MCA/Universal Records, and Vice President of A+R at Sony/Relativity Recordings. She has worked and signed with artists as diverse as Level 42, Patty Smyth, REM, U2, The Lightning Seeds, Jill Sobule, and Josh Ritter.

University of New Haven Professor Dr. Eva Sapi is a nationally recognized expert on Lyme disease, researching the latest developments in the diagnosis and treatment of the tick-borne disease. She recently led a student research project that resulted in the development of an at-home testing kit for Lyme disease.

New Haven radio legend Bruce Barber has brought his 35-plus years of on-air experience to the University's WNHU radio station. As the station's new general manager, the former co-host of the popular "Smith and Barber The Morning Show," is forging a vibrant connection with the community mentors some very fortunate student broadcasters.

World-renowned forensic scientist Dr. Henry C. Lee, an expert witness at such high-profile cases as O.J. Simpson, JonBenét Ramsey, Laci Peterson, and the reinvestigation of the JFK assassination, has brought international acclaim to the University of New Haven. Dr. Lee founded our Forensic Science program in 1975 and continues his work on our campus to this day.

Center for Film, Television, and Multi-Platform Journalism Studies

A hub of media activity, this is where students experience the communication industry both in front of the camera and behind the scenes. Work on a cutting-edge set with industry-level lighting and the latest digital equipment, learn production in our expanded television control room, and pull it all together in editing suites packed with the latest technology.
