“The University of New Haven campus has really become my home. I love being involved in the small community, and the friends I have made have become my family. There is always something to do on campus, whether it’s participating in Rec Sports, going to SCOPE events such as movie nights, or going and cheering at all the different sporting events. Living on campus has really taught me a lot about myself and how to handle many different types of situations. I have had such a great time living on campus and being in the small school environment. I couldn’t picture my college experience any other way.”

At the University of New Haven, we know that not everything you learn will come from your classrooms or even your books. Far from it, in fact. In keeping with the University’s focus on Experiential Education, we created many different LIVING-LEARNING COMMUNITIES, or LLCs for short. Not only will your LLC immerse you in true collaborative learning with a group of your fellow first-year students, but it will also take you beyond the classroom into the world. In addition to further enhancing your academic programs, LLCs participate in FIELD TRIPS, GUEST LECTURES, SERVICE-LEARNING PROJECTS, BARBECUES, AND MUCH MORE.

Your LLC hallmates become your classmates as well, giving you a tight-knit group to study and discuss issues with, get advice from, and even challenge to all-night Xbox tournaments. Or PlayStation, if you prefer!

“I couldn’t have chosen to live in a better residence hall this year. Having two huge lounges and multiple common rooms on every floor has allowed me to meet new people and hang out with friends. There are also many study rooms where I can quietly work. I like the size of my room and the ease of sharing a bathroom with only one other person. Westside Hall also houses a dining hall on the first floor, so I don’t have to leave the building to get something to eat.”

WESTSIDE HALL

• 90,000-square-foot residence hall with POD DESIGN

• COMMUNITIES of 16 or more students centered on a COMMON LOUNGE AREA, with entries into double-occupancy rooms all around it

• An INVITING SPACE for faculty members to meet with students

• A ground floor that is a HUB FOR THE WHOLE UNIVERSITY, with a dining room, common lounge spaces, office space, and classrooms

• Fully AIR-CONDITIONED

• ELEVATOR ACCESS

“Bergami Hall is a great place to live, especially for first-year students. There aren’t that many floors, so the building doesn’t feel too big, and you really get to know the other people who live there. I also love the set-up. It’s a suite-style building, with two rooms connected by a common bathroom. It gives first-year students more independence by giving them their own bathroom and more space. Bergami Hall is also host to different Living-Learning Communities. These LLCs are a great way for students to live with other students in the same major or who have similar interests. There are special trips and programs just for the LLCs, and students get to meet and interact with faculty from their academic program immediately. Bergami Hall is a great place in which to live, make new friends, and begin your college career at the University of New Haven!”

“What I loved about living in Bethel was being in a suite — it automatically gave me 12 new friends. Having such a big group of friends made me feel so welcome and at home. They were my mini family. The best part was the diversity and being able to appreciate everyone's differences — we had music, business, and English majors, athletes, and girls from all over the country. They've made a big impact on my college experience, and we all still keep in touch.”

“Bixler Hall is among the most diverse places to live on campus. Traditional college-style living, especially for the first year on campus, is by far the greatest experience any new student can have. Living with two other roommates, on a floor where all of our doors are always open and your friends are always there, makes living on campus so unique and fulfilling. No matter what time of day it is, there’s someone up, with the door open, willing to chat or even to just hang out. By living here, I have made friendships that will last a lifetime and have acquired an eternity of stories to tell! Choosing to go to college was the second best decision I’ve made. Living in Bixler Hall, part of the Business LLC, was THE best decision I’ve made.”

“Living in Gerber Hall is a unique and exciting experience. Coming into college after high school is a huge adjustment and one not to be taken lightly, but living in such an open and friendly educational environment certainly makes the transition easier. With every door open at every hour of the day, making phenomenal friends is easy. Sharing a room with two other people and a common room with three more offers you many chances to connect with students who have different concentrations in your major. Our RAs arrange trips to help expand our knowledge of our major and give us the chance to spend a day with the whole floor. A sense of family and community just comes naturally in our hall. Choosing the University of New Haven was the best decision I made, and living in Gerber Hall made my experience all the better.”

“I love living across the street from campus in the Atwood because the staff and the people who work here are very welcoming and warm. Also, because the facilities and appliances are new, everything works flawlessly. I also enjoy the amount of space we have here — the design and layout give me a real sense of luxury.”

“I really like living in Winchester. It’s a lot different from the first-year dorms. For one thing, there is much more space in the rooms. I also like having a large common room outside of the bedrooms that everybody can hang out in. It’s a great set-up because you still have your own room to go to if you want. It’s also great to have a little kitchen-like area that lets us cook a bit more than we were able to in the first-year dorms. Overall, I love living here and am really glad I chose Winchester.”

“Celentano Hall is located right in the heart of the main campus, making it easily accessible from academic buildings and other resources on campus. The hall is set up apartment-style, and on each floor there is a laundry facility, a common room, and a recycling room. From the upper floors, students enjoy views of downtown New Haven and Long Island Sound. I have lived in Celentano hall for two years, and I can honestly say that it has been a very rewarding experience. It not only has been my home away from home, it has also allowed me to become more independent while giving me the opportunity to interact and meet many other students.”

“All I can say about Ruden is that it was a great experience. Everyone in the apartments was really close-knit, and many of us still connect. It’s also a little quieter than housing on the main campus, which was a nice break. The apartments themselves are really nice and have their own living rooms and bathrooms. I especially loved being able to cook in my own apartment!”

“I loved living in Dunham. I have visited every residence hall on campus, and Dunham is, by far, my favorite. Dunham is an apartment-style residence hall, which I liked very much because it gave me the feeling of independence that I was expecting from going to college. Each of the suites in Dunham has a full kitchen with a stove and an oven, a bathroom with a full bathtub, and plenty of closet and storage space. Although it is farther from the center of campus than some other residence halls, I think that Dunham is worth the walk just to have the amenities that it provides.”

“When it came time for my friends and me to choose where we wanted to live, there were many factors that came into play. We had talked about moving off campus because we wanted more independence, but with my involvement on campus that would be kind of tough. I had friends who lived in Forest Hills, and seeing what their apartments were like really helped us to decide. It is about a five-minute walk from campus, in a residential neighborhood, making it convenient to get to and from campus. There is a guard booth at the entrance to the complex, which is manned by security. This is the part that my parents liked most. Forest Hills has definitely lived up to all of my expectations. I love having the option to cook my own meals in a real kitchen, being able to cool off on a hot day in the early weeks of the fall semester, and having all of this taken care of through the Office of Residential Life.”

"Savin was a blast to live in during my junior year. Having a two-story condo was great because it was really spacious and private. There's plenty of room in the kitchen to cook up a meal, and the living room is spacious too, if you want to have friends over. Savin is definitely a great option if you want a larger place to live."

  - “The Main Street Condos is a luxurious place to live that makes you feel right at home. I definitely did not feel as though I was living in campus housing. With two bedrooms, two and a half bathrooms, granite countertops, walk-in closets, deck, two-car garage, and oh, did I mention a FIREPLACE, Main Street is a great place to live — a real ‘home away from home.’ Even if you don’t have a car, that’s okay. The University provides shuttle service that gets you to campus very easily. I really enjoyed living in Main Street and wish I had lived there sooner than my senior year!”
Tyler Cashman

“I love living in Sheffield Hall! The only thing you don’t have in the room is a stove, and you don’t even need it! The setup is extremely spacious and roomy. It was great being so close to the C-Store (campus convenience store) and the Quad. The location of the building is very convenient to everything on campus. Also, there are so many rooms that there are always new people to meet in the halls. It was just a great experience — I like it so much that I even plan to live there again next year!”
