

close window

Art vs. Lyme disease

Published on 6/28/2009 in Home » Entertainment » Local

On July 12, local artists will unite in the village of Stony Creek in Branford to help a University of New Haven researcher wage an research battle against Lyme disease.

The artists will set up their easels throughout the area and - from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. - create small landscape paintings to be sold during a silent auction later that day. Thirty percent of the proceeds from the auction, which will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the Stony Creek Gallery, 152 Thimble Islands Road, will go to support the research of Eva Sapi, Ph.D., and the University of New Haven Lyme Disease Research Group.

Artists interested in participating in the event may contact Stony Creek Gallery Director Susan Strickland at 203-208-1990 or visit www.stonycreekgallery.com.

- Kenton Robinson

"Regional"