3 Big Things Every College Should Offer You

Your junior year is approaching, which means your college search is ramping up! As you start thinking about where you'll go, keep these must-have elements in mind to ensure you find the best college experience. Read on to discover the three big things every college should offer you (and how to make sure they do).

A great college should offer you...

A vibrant campus community.

Colleges are unique, not only in what they offer academically but socially as well. Whatever college you pick will be your home for four years, so it's important to explore the campus community before you decide. Look into what current students do in their spare time, where they live, and the places they study or take a coffee break.

What stands out on the University of New Haven's vibrant campus community?

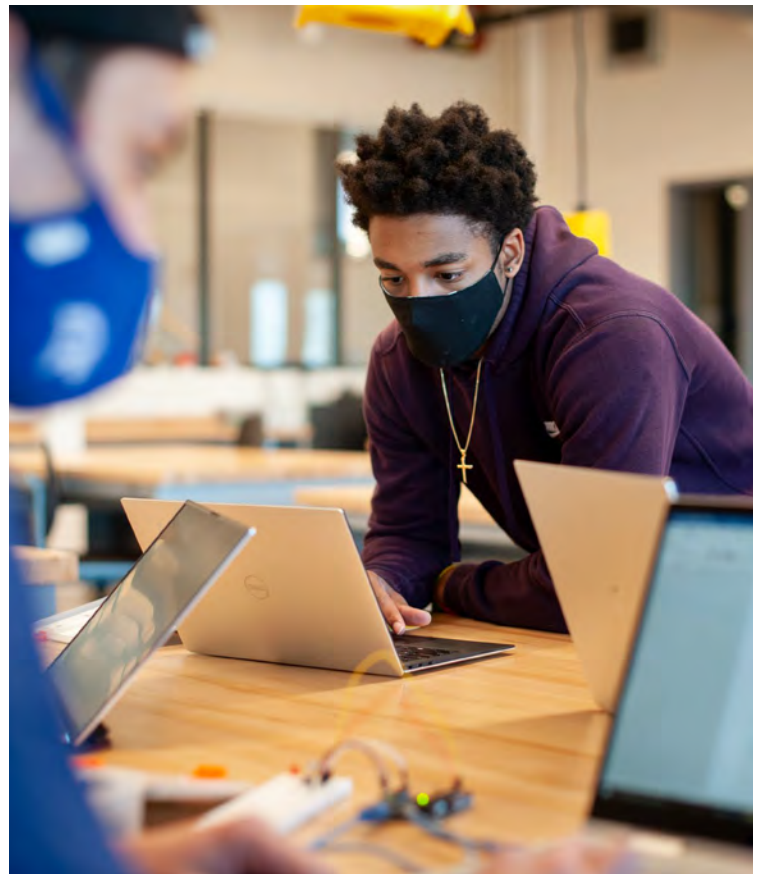

It's small enough to feel personal and manageable yet large enough to offer all kinds of variety in and out the classroom.

From leadership opportunities and cultural clubs to community service and club sports, there are more than 200 organizations where you can dive into your passions. Since most undergrads live on campus in our 14 residence halls, you'll have plenty of opportunities to make a tight-knit group of friends.

A great college should offer you...

Limitless academic and co-curricular opportunities.

When it comes to majors and academic opportunities, every college offers something different. Even if you think you know what to study, your interests may change over time! That's why it's important to find a place that provides options for you to explore your interests and dive into the things you love. Connect with students who are on the path you're interested in and see how the college is setting them up for a successful career in the future!

We make it easy for students to find their passion through our five colleges and schools and more than 100 academic offerings, all grounded in collaboration and high impact learning.

In keeping with UNewHaven's focus on experiential learning, we have state-of-the-art campus facilities like the Bergami Center for Science, Technology, and Innovation to give students everything they need to collaborate, learn, and bring their ideas to life.

A great college should offer you...

Clear commitment to your success.

Feeling supported while you're in college is a key component to your success. From choosing a major to getting advice for landing your first job, it's important to know a school will have your back no matter where you are. Explore colleges that have accessible on-campus resources and faculty who are committed to your personal and professional success.

At UNewHaven, we're dedicated to the students who choose to become Chargers and want them to achieve more than they thought possible. Our faculty are committed to getting to know you as a student. You could even have a professor more than once, so they'll be able to get to know and support you better throughout your time at the University of New Haven! Plus, with unique campus elements like our Enhanced Learning Communities (ELC), Center for Learning Resources and the Career Development Center, we offer the support students need to map out the future they envision.

"I like the ELC because a large portion of the forensic science majors are grouped together on one floor, which makes it easy to form study groups. I also enjoy the monthly activities put on by the faculty as well as the fact that we get to form a connection with professors that transcends both the teacher/student and adviser/student relationships."

Rob Harvey, B.S. Forensic Science, '11
