

3 THINGS EVERY JUNIOR SHOULD DO NOW TO PREPARE FOR COLLEGE

How ready do you feel for college?

Here are three things every junior can do RIGHT NOW to get better prepared for an amazing college experience.

University of New Haven

Look into ways to visit campus, both virtually and in person

Sometimes, all it takes is a visit for you to “just know” where you belong! Whether you check out a campus online or in person, doing so is one of the best ways to get a feel for a college.

It gives you a chance to explore classrooms and residence halls, meet professors, and talk to current students—all of which can give you insight into what makes the college a great place to live and learn.

“Being in Florida, I never knew I’d come across a university like New Haven, but I had an idea of what I wanted to study and looked into the schools with great programs in that subject. I did a virtual visit with New Haven, and I talked to my advisor a lot. I made sure to ask a lot of questions because I wanted to be sure I was making the right decision.”

Devika Singh, Mechanical Engineering

We’d love to show you all the great things that happen at New Haven and why you should become a Charger—that’s why we’d love for you to check us out on-campus or online! Plan a one-on-one visit or attend a major-specific virtual event to connect with faculty and learn more about our dynamic academic programs.

Explore interests and environments that are right for you

A big part of the college experience is turning your passions into potential majors or careers.

What subjects do you enjoy? What kinds of things do you find interesting? It's also important to consider where you thrive—do you do best in large classes or small groups? Do you like collaborating frequently or working independently? Knowing how you learn best will be key to your success in the field you choose!

"I was really determined to work with computers and wanted a college that had a Computer Science program. During a major-specific tour, I got to meet with the advisor of Cyber Security where she told me how involved the major is and what the program offers, and that ultimately put New Haven over the edge for me. The classes are accredited and the program more in-depth than those at other colleges."

Ryan Horgan, Computer Science and Game Development

New Haven is 100% invested in your success. From Business and Engineering to Forensic Science and Public Health, we provide limitless academic opportunities through our 5 unique colleges and schools. All our programs are grounded in collaboration and project-based learning, and our faculty are committed to getting to know you as a student. You could even have a professor more than once, so they'll be able to get to know and support you better throughout your time at New Haven!

Consider where you want to study

Location, location, location.

The life you lead outside the classroom is just as vital to your college experience as your coursework, so it's important that you love where you live! If being able to access great food, entertainment, internships and job opportunities is important to you, check out schools that make it easy to explore the world off campus.

"University of New Haven is in a really nice location. It's very close to downtown, where there's always great food, movie theaters, museums, and the arts district. Anybody who's a New Havener will tell you to try the pizza because it's famous—we're very proud of our pizza here."

Hannah Providence, Economics

The University of New Haven's dynamic and diverse campus is bursting with opportunity! New Haven is home to world-class theaters, musicians, art and pizza. That's right—we're the Pizza Capital of the World, home to a variety of delicious, must-visit pizza joints famously featured on Barstool Sports. We also have an international campus in Tuscany, Italy, which allows our students to experience life and learning in an exciting, cultural environment (and, of course, more pizza).
