LEAD FACILITATORS

Catherine (Kitty) Tyrol, Lead Facilitator and Program Director, is the Curriculum Developer/Instructor for Tow Youth Justice Institute. She has nearly twenty years of experience in program development, curriculum and training design, strategic planning, project coordination and implementation, and quality assurance with particular focus on workforce development in youth justice. As a former Director of Training for a gender-based youth justice program with national and international practice, she invokes a broad perspective on youth justice efforts from leadership development, staff training, programming and practice. Ms. Tyrol is well respected in CT by multiple stakeholders (Judicial Branch, DCF, community providers, non-profits, education and advocacy) as a subject matter expert in positive youth development with extensive experience as a Trainer and Quality Assurance Project Manager for the Juvenile Risk Reduction Program of the Judicial Branch (CSSD Center for Best Practices).

Francis G. Olive, III, Ph.D., Co-Facilitator and Evaluator, is a former Ph.D. student for Tow Youth Justice Institute, has a Master's degree in Clinical Social Work from Fordham University and is a Ph.D. graduate in Criminal Justice at the University of New Haven. He has facilitated trainings for the staff of the Hamden County Sheriff's Department in Massachusetts and also will be facilitating trainings to correctional officers at the Museum of Tolerance in Manhattan. He has considerable teaching experience at the undergraduate level and teaches criminal justice course along with an Ethics, Leadership Development and Integrity Training course.

William H. Carbone, Director of the Tow Youth Justice Institute and Director of Experiential Education for Henry C. Lee College of Criminal Justice and Forensic Sciences, is also a Co-Facilitator for the Leadership Program providing expertise on Juvenile Justice, the CT Judicial System, strategic planning and implementation on juvenile justice reform, and leadership of a state agency. Mr. Carbone was formerly the Executive Director of the Court Support Services Division (CSSD) in the Connecticut Judicial Branch. He directed and managed over 1,600 employees involved with adult and juvenile probation, family services, juvenile detention, alternative sanctions and pretrial release. Mr. Carbone was involved as a leader in all of the major juvenile justice reforms accomplished in Connecticut.

HENRY C. LEE COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND FORENSIC SCIENCES

Transforming Youth Justice: A Leadership Development Program

FUNDED BY: The Community Foundation for Greater New Haven
WHO WE ARE
The University of New Haven, founded in 1920, emphasizes experiential education, academic service-learning, work integrated learning, and faculty-mentored research for its 6,400 undergraduate and graduate students. The Henry C. Lee College of Criminal Justice and Forensic Sciences has more than 50 faculty members with expertise in juvenile justice, youth violence, domestic violence, victimology, law enforcement, public service, legal studies, forensic psychology, adult corrections, national security and forensic science.

The Tow Youth Justice Institute is the only organization in the State of Connecticut and one of a few organizations in the nation that is solely dedicated to youth justice issues based on a comprehensive, multi-disciplinary, research-driven model to address this important subject. This academic-based institute at University of New Haven is dedicated to the training and education of state and local officials, policy-makers and future leaders. It is also designed to promote, monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of evidence-based practices, programs and policies related to youth justice, focusing on the needs of youth up to the age of 21.

The Institute is supported with funds from the Tow Foundation and the State of Connecticut.

PROGRAM GOALS
The goals of the Transforming Youth Justice: A Leadership Development Program include:

1. To build the capacity of present and future leaders as agents of change, transforming youth justice from a community response paradigm.

2. To advance leadership development skills and knowledge of best practices in reform, organizational and community change, and self-awareness.

3. To be a resource to the organizations, communities, and systems serving youth through a network of dedicated leaders.

Target Audience
Participants in the Transforming Youth Justice: A Leadership Development Program will come from the Greater New Haven area and will form a core group of individuals dedicated to transforming youth justice and developing their personal leadership skills. Participants will be actively involved in youth justice and employed in positions as mid-level managers in:

- Law Enforcement/Policing
- State and local government
- Non-profit agencies

As well as community members in:

- Middle and High Schools
- Policymakers
- Community leaders
- Parents
- Faith leaders
- Youth and parent advocates

Applications are available at www.newhaven.edu/TowInstitute and are DUE by February 25, 2016. Accepted Applicants will be notified by March 7, 2016.

Structure
Transforming Youth Justice: A Leadership Development Program will meet for a full day once a month on Fridays at the University of New Haven’s Orange Campus, located at 584 Derby Milford Road, Orange, Connecticut. The program will kick off with a 1½ Day Intensive Introductory Session in late March 2016 and will meet monthly thereafter concluding with a final session in December. Monthly sessions will be augmented with extra-curricular activities, readings, or events between sessions.
